1 Purpose

This document outlines the procedures that the AML Compliance Department will conduct to report beneficial ownership discrepancies to Corporations Canada in accordance with FINTRAC's Beneficial Ownership requirements and guidance.

2 Guidance

Use these procedures in conjunction with the Credit Union's Beneficial Ownership Determination Guidelines and High-Risk, Prohibited, and Restricted Memberships Policy

3 Overview

As part of its Know Your Member (KYM) and record keeping obligations, the Credit Union is required to take reasonable measures to confirm the accuracy of beneficial ownership information when they first obtain it and in the course of conducting ongoing monitoring of their business relationships.

When the Credit Union determines that an active corporation incorporated under the Canada Business Corporations Act (CBSA) poses a high risk of a money laundering offence or terrorist activity financing offence the Credit Union must compare the supporting documentation obtained for beneficial ownership to the individuals with significant control of the corporation listed in Corporations Canada's database and determine if there is a material discrepancy.

If a material discrepancy is identified it must be reported to Corporations Canada as outlined in this procedure.

3.1 Canada Business Corporations Act (CBSA)

A federally incorporated Canadian business will be incorporated under the CBSA and will be registered under the Corporations Canada Database. To find federal incorporation information refer to the database here:

Search for a Federal Corporation - Online Filing Centre - Corporations Canada - Corporations - Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada

3.2 High-Risk Entities

Entities that the Credit Union determines to pose a high-risk of money laundering or terrorist financing can be referred to under the High-Risk, Prohibited, and Restricted Memberships Policy

3.3 Material Discrepancy

A material discrepancy is a meaningful inconsistency between the beneficial ownership information of a corporation incorporated under the CBCA and the individuals with significant control listed in Corporations Canada's database that could impact the proper identification, or conceal, the individuals that own or control a corporation.

A material discrepancy does not include a discrepancy that arises from:

- a spelling mistake or minor variation in a name or address
- the use of a service address in one information source and a residential address in another
- the fact that information is not available to the public due to an exception or exemption
 - the presence of an exception or exemption is clearly indicated within Corporations Canada's database
- the fact that information on individuals with significant control available in Corporations Canada's database is about persons who are not captured under beneficial ownership information requirements, or vice versa

When a material discrepancy is identified between the beneficial ownership information of a high-risk corporation incorporated under the CBSA and the individuals with significant control listed in Corporations Canada's database, a Beneficial Ownership Discrepancy Report must be submitted to Corporations Canada.

3.4 Timing

A Beneficial Ownership Discrepancy Report must be submitted to Corporations Canada within 30 days after the day on which the material discrepancy is identified.

A material discrepancy that is resolved within 30 days after the day on which it is identified is not required to be reported.

4 Material Discrepancy Reporting Process

If the Credit Union determines that a material discrepancy exists for active corporation incorporated under the CBCA which poses a high risk of a money laundering offence or terrorist activity financing offence, the following procedures must be followed by the AML Compliance Department to report the material discrepancy to Corporations Canada.

4.1 Notification

The AML Compliance Department will be notified of a material discrepancy by:

- an email to the AML Compliance inbox from Credit Union staff who have identified a material discrepancy; or
- the AML Compliance Department may identify a material discrepancy through ongoing monitoring of prescribed high-risk entities.
